STATUS

Proposal

PLANNING's design approach for this residential retreat was intentionally centred around farmhouse themes that celebrate its remote backwoods locale by use of a durable and limited stone palette; a form and orientation that allows and offers dramatic and intimate views; and rooms and spaces that speak to the respite that the remote estate will provide. We set a mission to design a beautiful relationship creatively and authentically between landscape, architecture, and the homeowners plus their visiting residents. As an overall formal theme, the placement of the architecture of Hadada sought to be well integrated to the site. To also provide the intimacy that will result in the tranquillity that the site strongly evokes, its forms have been de-composed (broken down) into appropriate parts that allow the landscape to approach or penetrate each building while creating interactive spaces that are both indoor and outdoor.

PLANNING proposed a material palette that will weather and wear beautifully over time while at the same time reflecting a strong grounding and blend with the topography. As a result of the site's topography, we identified several cinematic opportunities at different points of the site; some near and some far. The colours of the earth, the flora and fauna provided insight that guided the architecture. Contrasting and complementing the overall building form, are serendipitous spaces of tranquil, fellowship, intimacy and stillness. These spaces are opportunities to landscape thematically lush. The ground and upper stories both offer short and far views to nature. Indoors and outdoors. All spaces have managed to both cloak and light their occupants depending on the time of day or season.
